Sean Perkin's starts off his morning routine before getting his work-day going.

On his commute to campus, he is met with heavy city traffic.

A silhouette of a construction site at sunset. A crane is lifting a large, dark, rectangular object, possibly a piece of machinery or a large panel, from a lower level. The object is suspended by a cable and a hook. In the background, there are complex scaffolding structures and steel beams of a building under construction. The sky is a gradient of orange and pink. A worker is visible on a platform below the suspended object, holding a rope.

After having to take a detour from construction, now Sean is now in danger of being late to work. He is now in an unfamiliar area and has no idea where he can park without getting towed.

Sean remembers his friend recommended him to download the parking app on his phone to easily find city park. Using his geo-location, the app. Informs Sean of a nearby available parking spot, conveniently located next to his destination.

With help of the app. Sean successfully made it to work on time. After he parked, the app. asked if Sean would like to “save” this location as a “favorite.”

Now, Sean can be alerted when this prime real estate is up for grabs before work. Also, Sean can give permissions to allow the app. too make suggestions for parking, in the even this happens again.

Sean found himself benefiting from the app. so much, that he subscribed to “premium” to have access to the biking routes, bike rack locations, and other features available to premium members.

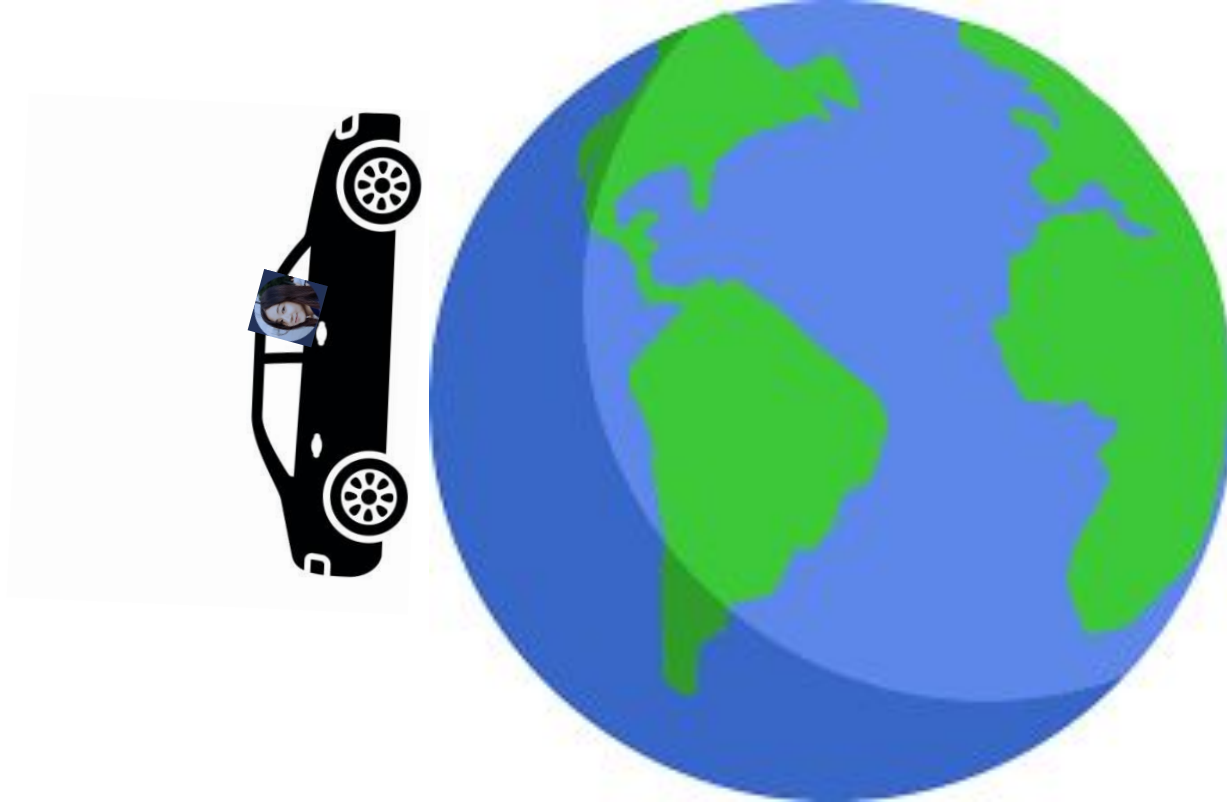

Jamie Lane is nervous to start her first year of classes at UofSC. She has several classes everyday and does not know how she will commute from home to class each day.

Jamie gets in her car to go to class but comes to realize that there is close to no parking at UofSC.

She drove around the whole campus and little to no surprise she found no parking spots that were close to her class.

Jamie Lane quickly got out her phone and started texting her roommate about where she parks during the school day.

Her friend quickly told her about an app that would tell her the location of every open parking spot near her classes. Jamie quickly downloaded the app.

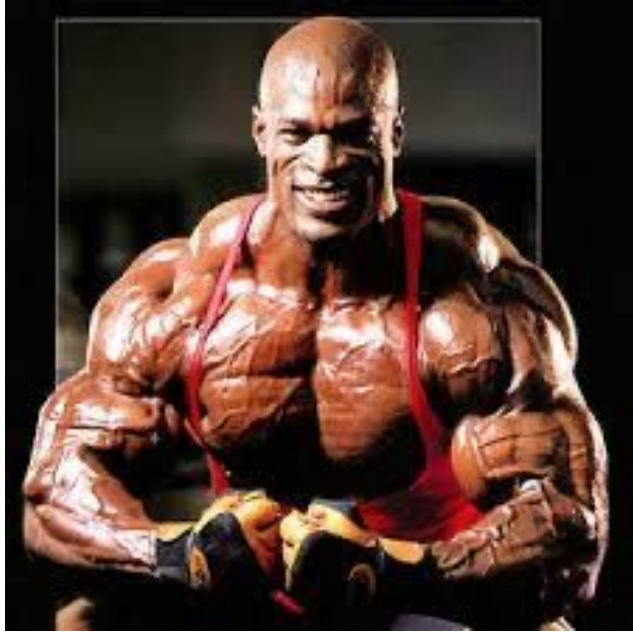

Jamie was astonished by the fact that she could enter in her schedule and location of classes and parking spots would just appear. She could not believe she solved her problem that fast.

John Smith is an incredibly motivated person who always strives to be the best version of themselves. This busy lifestyle involves a lot of stress and requires him to be very busy.

John is struggling to focus at the gym because he is thinking about the next place he has to be and knows the parking there is terrible.

A man approaches John, noticing he is stressed, to tell him about this new parking app.

John tries the app and locates a parking spot nearby his next building. The app provided him with directions and time of availability.

early to his next business meeting!

John is now able to live a extremely efficient life and saves loads of time using the parking app.

Jackie Hart is getting old, however, she wants to continue to be able to work and support her family. She often finds herself getting to work late and accumulating extra stress because it takes her too long to get ready and find parking at her age.

Recently, Jackie has been getting yelled at by her boss for being late to work. She does not want to get fired and needs to find a solution.

Jackie was very sad, however, her friend told her about this parking app that could allow her to save time in the morning.

The next morning, before Jackie leaves for work, she checks the parking app. The app gives her directions to which spots are available to park near her building.

Jackie is easily able to find the open spot near her building. She is early for work!

Jackie's boss is very happy and offered her a promotion. Jackie's family is also living lavishly with all the money Jackie is making!
